FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Tallahassee--Florida Renewable Energy Producers Association will remain neutral in the Florida Governor's race. While we see Alex Sink and Bud Chiles as having communicated a real commitment to renewable energy in Florida, we will not be making any endorsements as other groups may do so. However, we are available to offer all candidates critical information that they may need to better understand the issues in Florida, said Michael Dobson.

FREPA is a Florida not for profit dedicated to developing public policy that levels the playing field for renewable energy businesses in Florida so that it is a more competitive marketplace. Founded in 2007, FREPA has been the most aggressive voice in renewable energy discussions in Florida, therefore called "The Voice of Renewable Energy in Florida."

In the coming months, on behalf of the ballot initiative, FREPA will be reaching out to other stakeholders and citizens for their support on this important and vital measure.
